Elena Kagan not selected for jury duty

By Keith L. Alexander

ALEXANDER

UPDATE: Kagan was not selected for a jury, and was released Thursday afternoon.

ORIGINAL POST: Even a Supreme has to report to jury duty.

Seen waiting in the jury lounge at D.C. Superior Court Thursday was the newest Supreme Court Justice, Elena Kagan.

Kagan, who assumed the bench in August after being nominated by President Obama in May, sat with dozens of others potential jurors Thursday morning waiting to see if her juror badge number would be called.

Late last year, U.S. Attorney Eric Holder also reported to jury duty, but never made it onto a jury.
