

CLERKSHIP AND INTERNSHIP INFORMATION FOR
CHIEF JUDGE ANNA BLACKBURNE-RIGSBY

Chief Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals is currently accepting clerkship applications. She will begin reviewing applications in August and expects to start interviewing candidates in August and September. Typically the Chief Judge employs two-to-three law clerks in chambers. The position of law clerk is usually for one year, and will start in late August or early September.

Chief Judge Blackburne-Rigsby is interested in candidates with diverse backgrounds and experiences, with excellent grades in law school. Candidates with prior work experience, law journal, and moot court experience are preferred. Candidates should submit a cover letter, resume, law school transcript, writing sample, and three professional and academic references and/or letters of recommendation.

Please email or mail your application materials to the attention of Ms. LaVerne Atiba (LAtiba@dcappeals.gov), the Chief Judge's Judicial Administrative Assistant:
