

STEPHEN RICKARD
-BIO-

Stephen Rickard, Esq., has served as an Assistant United States Attorney (“AUSA”) for the District of Columbia since 2009. He is currently a line attorney in the Homicide Section within the Superior Court Division. Mr. Rickard previously served as Chief of the General Crimes Section and as a Deputy Chief supervising the Misdemeanor Unit and, later, violent crime prosecutions in the Felony Major Crimes Section. Mr. Rickard has also served in the office’s Appellate Division and as a line attorney in the General Crimes Section. He also led the office’s response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Mr. Rickard earned his Bachelor of Arts degree, magna cum laude, from Brown University and his Juris Doctor degree, summa cum laude, from the Boston University School of Law. Prior to joining the United States Attorney’s Office, Mr. Rickard served as law clerk for the Honorable Joseph L. Tauro on the United States District Court of the District of Massachusetts and the Honorable Juan R. Torruella on the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit.